2. Imitative Entrepreneur

Imitative entrepreneur is one who simply imitates existing skill, knowledge or technology already in place in advanced countries. A simply reengineer or redesign the products developed in advanced countries and produce a version suited to their local conditions. For example, many electronic products invented in advanced countries are simply reengineered in developing countries. Similarly expensive medicines developed in advanced countries are simply reengineered by changing the composition of elements or changing the process of production.

3. Fabian Entrepreneur

These entrepreneurs are said to be conservatives and sceptical about plasticising any change in their organisation. They are of risk-averse type. They do not simply change to the changes happening in the environment. But they adapt themselves to the changes only as a last resort when they fear that non adaptability to changes will inevitably lead to loss or collapse of the enterprise. Their dealings are governed by customs, religion, tradition and past practices handed down to them by their ancestors. They would like to follow in the footsteps of predecessors. Example; Nursus coffee

4. Drone Entrepreneur

Drone entrepreneurs are those who are totally opposed to changes unfolding in the environment. They used to operate in the niche market. They are similar to fabian entrepreneur in doggedly pursuing their conventional practices. The main difference between fabianentrepreneur and drone entrepreneur lies in the fact that while fabian entrepreneur adapts to changes eventually as a last resort, drone entrepreneur never adapts himself or herself to change, Example; Gopal Tooth powder
