Case Study

GoliVadaPav 1
(Indian Street-food Vendor)

Challenge: Handmade patties are not uniform in quality and have a short span of shell life. Decrease in the profit margin due to acute increase in the price of ingredients. Bank which rendered loans to Mr. Venkatesh insisted to stop the losses which arose due to these problems or repay the bank loans

Inception:

VenkateshIyer co-founded GoliVAdaPav with Shiv Menonto 2004 in Kalyan, near Mumbai for selling affordable, clean, ethnic fast good to lower income customers in India.

Product - Vadapav:

A typical Mumbai street-food dish of a spicy vegetable patty in a bun. The goal was to sell hygienically prepared food with an authentic touch.

GOLI
Vada Pav No. 1

Strategy:

Outsourcing the supply chain and operations from Vista Processing foods, a US company to supply frozen vegetables and patties to GoliVAdaPav which ensures consistency in quality and short shell life. Installation of automated fryer machines in their outlets improved their business. Decision to penetrate the second-tier cities in western and southern cities for their marketing.

Success Story:

i. GoliVadaPav has 300 stores in 100 cities across 20 states of India.

ii. Goli fast food chain products are prepared in fully automated 'HACCP' certified hands free plant frozen at -18 degree Celsius.

iii. GoliVadaPav was set up in over 40 cities with 150 outlets with a success rate of sale of 75,000-100,000 vadapavs per day.
